Event Preference System
User Guide

FIRST® is a global robotics community that prepares young people for the future.
Event Preference System Summary

Under this system, all FIRST® Robotics Competition teams will have one week to enter their ranked event preferences. Teams will be able to enter and rank as many or as few eligible events as they like. There will be no advantage or disadvantage to entering preferences early or late during the open week, as long as preferences are in by the deadline. Also, teams will be able to change their preferences as often as they like before the deadline.

All teams will be randomly assigned a lottery number. Teams will keep this lottery number throughout the event selection process for the season. After the preference deadline, the system will go through each team in lottery number sequence, registering the team to the first event with available capacity in the order of the team’s event preference list. If none of the events on a team’s list has open capacity, the team will be waitlisted on the single event they have identified as being their preferred ‘waitlist’ event (or the first event on their list if they do not specifically designate a waitlist event). So, every team that has entered a preference list for this first round will either be registered for an event or waitlisted for an event.

Teams will then be notified of their first-round results. In round two, another one-week window will open for teams to use in selecting their second event preferences. Again, teams can enter as many or as few eligible events on this list they wish, along with selecting a single event on the list as their waitlist preference. Teams will also once more be able to make any changes they wish before the deadline.

After this second preferences deadline, the system will once again assign events, but this time going in reverse lottery number sequence, from the largest lottery number to the smallest. This means teams who were at the bottom of the list for the first round are at the top of the list for the second. Teams are then notified of the results of this second round. Once more, every team that has entered a preference list for this second round will either be registered for an event or waitlisted for an event.

The third period of registration will be ‘Unrestricted’ Regional event registration and Additional In-District Event registration, followed by Additional Inter-District Event registration. These registration periods will follow a first-come, first-served method. This means that once the ‘Unrestricted’ Event Registration time opens, there is no longer a lottery process.

All events have ‘reserved’ slots. These slots allow Regional Directors and District Management to selectively move in teams on the waitlist for each event based on need. If you find yourself on a waitlist for an event and you have a clear and compelling reason why you can only attend that one event, please connect with the Regional Director or District Management. They will do their best to accommodate you.

Teams can also check out the Event Registration FAQ.
Key Points

These are some key points to keep in mind when using this system:

- There is no event assignment advantage or disadvantage to submitting your preferences early or late during the open week, but you must submit by the deadline to be part of the process.
- You can change your preferences as often as you wish before the deadline without penalty.
- You will only be assigned or waitlisted to events you list, but you could be assigned to any event you list.
- If you are waitlisted, you will only be waitlisted at the one (1) event you indicate as ‘Allow Waitlist’ on your preferences. This indication defaults to the first event you list, but you may change it as shown in these instructions.
- Important Note: If you are only able to attend one specific event, you should only preference just that event. You are guaranteed to be at least waitlisted for that event.
- If you are able to attend more than one event, you should add all events you are able to and wish to attend in your preference list. This increases the chance you will be immediately registered for an event, rather than experiencing the delay associated with waitlists.
- If you add more than one event on your preference list, make sure to set the ‘Preference Level’ on those events to match your priority. The system will attempt to find space for you in the event you list as Preference Level 1 before moving on to attempt to find space in the event you list as Preference Level 2, etc.
- The preferences you make during the first round of preferencing are independent of those you make during the second round of preferencing. Your preferences will be reset between the first and second rounds. During the second round, you will start with a clean slate.
- Only the Pacific Northwest, Michigan, and North Carolina Districts use the ‘home event’ system. If you are not in one of those districts, you can ignore the discussion of home events in these instructions.
- The information you see on the event preferencing screen is automatically submitted to the system. There is no ‘Save’ or ‘Submit’ button. If you change any information on this screen, those changes are saved automatically.
